LEXINGTON:—PRINTED BY J. BRADFORD, ON MAIN STREET, WHERE SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE RECEIVED AT 15/ PER ANNUM.

To the Patrons of Literature.

HAVING with infinite concern observed the little attention that is paid to the inſtruction of youth in the grammatical principals of the Engliſh language, in moſt of our ſchools both in town and country; I find after the moſt accurate enquiry into the ſtate of the caſe, and deliberate inveſtigation of the ſubject, that this enormous neglect muſt be principally attributed to the manner in which this fundamental and indiſpenſibly neceſſary ſcience has hitherto been treated.

There are indeed a few ſyſtems extant which merit a conſiderable degree of eſteem; but theſe being originally deſigned for young men who have been initiated in claſſical ſtudies, are conſequently unfit for the information of the ignorant, and entirely above the capacities of children.

The majority of treatiſes which have been hereto fore publiſhed on this ſubject, are written in ſuch a latinized, profix & circumlocutory ſtyle, that they are almoſt (if not altogether) unintelligible, not only to pupils, but alſo to teachers who have never been favored with a liberal education: As for thoſe few more Philanthropic writers, who have condeſcended to write for general information, they have done it in ſo looſe, ſuperficial and unſyſtematic a manner, that their performances are utterly inadequate to anſwer the end propoſed.

In order therefore to remove theſe difficulties – clear all obſtructions from the way of the learner, and, in a word, render all perſons inexcuſable who will not acquaint themſelves with the conſtituent principles of their Mother tongue, I propoſe publiſhing a conciſe and comprehenſive little ſyſtem, equally free from an unneceſſary prolixity and an abſtruſe brevity: My whole ambition being to merit the approbation and encouragment of my fellowcitizens, by endeavoring to promote a more general diffuſion of grammatical knowledge amongſt all claſſes, and particularly thoſe who may not have an opportunity of learning the grammar of other languages.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work ſhall be compriſed in a ſmall duodecimo volume, printed with a good type, and neatly bound in boards—Price Forty-one & Two Thirds Cents; the one half to be paid at the time of ſubſcribing, and the remaining half on the delivery of the work.

II. Whoever ſhall procure twenty ſubſcribers, ſhall be entitled to one copy extra.

III. As ſoon as five hundred ſubſcribers are obtained, the work ſhall be immediately put to preſs.

IV. If the above number of ſubſcribers be not procured before the 25th of December next, the money received, ſhall be punctually returned to each ſubſcriber.

V. The ſubſcribers names ſhall be preſixed as patrons of the work.

CHEAP LANDS

The Subſcribers purpoſe ſelling the following Tracts, viz.

FIVE hundred acres, part of that noted tract called Floyd's Woodſtock tract, within eight miles of Lexington and ſeven from the Kentucky river; in the center of which is a never failing ſpring.

Five hundred acres, lying within ſix miles of the town of Cynthiana being one half of a thouſand acre ſurvey made for maj. John Mosby, adjoining Coleman's ſtation.

Five hundred acres, ſituated on the Hanging fork, within ſix miles of the late governor's; a hundred and twenty acres of which is well cleared; on it is a peach orchard of ſix hundred trees, that has made four hundred gallons of brandy in one year, and there is every appearance of a ſufficiency of fruit to make five hundred this ſeaſon; with an apple orchard of four hundred flouriſhing trees, and a choice collection of cherry trees; together with ſeventy-five thouſand well burnt brick, and a good frame for a houſe. The above farm rents this year for two hundred dollars.

We will ſell the above property VERY LOW, as we are in want of money, and will give a good and ſufficient title.

tf ABIJAH & JOHN W. HUNT.

For Sale,

SIX THOUSAND ACRES OF LAND, ENTERED for maj. John Mosby, dec. and patented in the name of Littleberry Mosby, heir at law of ſaid John Mosby; lying on main Licking, being part of ten thouſand acres, beginning at one hundred poles above the mouth of a creek that runs into main Licking on the forth eaſt ſide, about four miles below the ſouth fork of Licking, and extending down Licking in ten ſurveys.—It is unneceſſary to deſcribe the land, as the purchaſer will be diſpoſed to make the neceſſary enquiries previous to his making any propoſals.—The title is ſuppoſed by thoſe who have carefully examined it to be unqueſtionable.—Upon paying part of the purchaſe money, a reaſonable credit will be given for the balance.

Notice.

ON the fourteenth day of July 1783 I made an entry for nineteen hundred acres of land, on the Kentucky river, between Leeſtown & the mouth of Elkhorn, beginning at a beech tree marked IW AM (joined together) on the bank of the river. All concerned will therefore take notice, that on the fifth day of October next, I ſhall, by virtue of an order of Franklin court, and in conformity to the act of aſſembly in ſuch caſes made and provided, meet with the commiſſioners and with my witneſſes, at the ſaid beech tree called for as the beginning corner of ſaid entry, and will then and there take ſundry depoſitions in order to perpetuate the ſaid beginning, and do ſuch other acts as the ſaid law may direct and authoriſe.

NOTICE.

ALL perſons having demands againſt John May deceaſed, either for money due to them, or for contracts payable in lands, are requeſted to tranſmit to the ſubſcriber a copy of their demands or contracts. All who are indebted to ſaid John May, either for money due to him, or contracts for land purchaſed from him, or for locating lands in the ſtate of Kentucky, are requeſted to make payment, and to perform their ſpecific contracts immediately. The ſaid deceaſed has by his laſt will and teſtament, ſubjected his lands to the payment of his debts, and the ſubſcriber will make it the firſt object of his adminiſtration to provide for the ſame, with as much diſpatch as the nature and circumſtances of the eſtate will admit of. And whereas the ſaid John May met with a premature death, by the hands of the Indians on his paſſage down the river Ohio, many papers and much information perished with him, 'tis probable the ſubſcriber may need the information of others in ſome matters relative to the negotiation of the deceaſed, in the weſtern country, and he will thankfully receive any communications which gentlemen acquainted with the concerns of the deceaſed, may think proper to make.

I have appointed mr. Thomas Carneal my agent in Kentucky to receive and forward all communications of that ſtate, alluded to above. As the want of a legal repreſentative ſince the death of mr. May, has obſtructed all operations relative to his tranſactions and no doubt to the injury of many, I now intreat that all perſons concerned may bring forward their buſineſs immediately.

GEORGE WHITE.

June 14.

Mr. BRADFORD:

TO acquire and to secure titles to land, is what at present naturally and neceſſarily engages the attention of the citizens of Kentucky. To make bona fide purchaſers and actual ſettlers as ſecure as poſſible without injuring thoſe who may have other titles to the ſame lands—Or otherwiſe ſtating it—How far, under our compact with Virginia, and conſiſtent with our conſtitution, we can compel claimants to ſtep forward and aſſert their rights or be forever barred by non-claim, is the ſubject I have a deſire to enquire into. The American motto was, Let every man mind his own buſineſs.—The Kentucky motto ſhould be nearly the ſame: Let every man mind his Land buſineſs, becauſe no ſpecies of property deſerves or requires more attention; becauſe if he does not, ſome one will be ſure to ſuffer, and it is moſt reaſonable that of two or more claimants, where one is an innocent purchaſer and in actual poſſeſſion of a legal right, that he or they ſhould ſuffer who have ſhewn the moſt indolence and neglect. What is the ſituation of this country? Claim upon claim aſſerted, & latent claims ſpringing up! No purchaſer can ſay he is ſecure however prudent he has been in ſecuring the warranty. How many families have fought this aſylum? moved from unfertile to fertile lands, in order to ſecure to their offspring a more promiſing inheritance? and can any one ſay aſſuredly to his children, when I am gone this will be yours?

He who makes theſe remarks, Mr. Bradford, (made indeed by every one) is not puffed up with the idea, that he has found a cure for the evil; a few queries ſhall be firſt ſtated, in hopes that they may draw into public attention, the thoughts and opinions of more penetrating heads, and more able writers—the ſubject deſerves it,—but if no ſuch a one appears, I promiſe, in ſome of your future publications, to continue in anſwer—

1ſt. The compact with Virginia, ſpeaks to this amount—"That all private rights and intereſts of land within this ſtate, derived from the laws of Virginia, prior to our ſeparation, ſhall remain valid and ſecure under the laws of this ſtate, and ſhall be determined by the laws now exiſting in Virginia" Quere.—Is the expreſſion, laws now exiſting to be underſtood the Statute laws of Virginia only, or every law exiſting or acknowledged by the Virginians to exiſt in their ſtate, concerning the rights & intereſts of land?

2d. Was there ever an inſtance, or (if there was not) could a preſent citizen of Virginia levy a FINE on land, and bar all who did not, within five years, put in and aſſert their claims, infants &c. excepted—and (if this is anſwered in the affirmative) why not a citizen of Kentucky?

3d. If FINES could be levied, what good effects would ſuch proceedings procure to the bona fide purchaſer, or to the citizens at large? Would they be ſo ſalutary as to induce us to apply to the ſtate of Virginia, if we cannot adopt them under the laws exiſting in Virginia?

4th. What reaſonable objection (in caſe application was made) could the Virginians have to our paſſing ſome law reſpecting non claim, or ſhortening the acts of limitation?

There is nothing, ſir, more agreeable to a writer, conſcious of his weakneſs, than to ſcreen himſelf behind a bulwork of queries. If he does ſo with unfeigned apprehenſions, a candid and generous obſerver, will lead him forth by the hand, and adminiſter conſolation; but if no ſuch friend appears, and he afterwards ventures forth, he need not be afraid of being laughed at.—But I am in hopes ſome one will in pity relieve.

I am, ſir, your hble. ſervt.

CAMILLUS.

Mr. John Bradford.

Ingratitude is a crime ſo ſhameful, that the man was never yet found who would acknowledge himſelf guilty of it.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I ſhall, on Saturday, the fifth day of November next, attend, with the commiſſioners appointed by the court of Franklin county, at the mouth of Gilbert's creek, (ſometimes called Bailey's run) in the ſaid county, then and there to take the depoſitions of witneſſes to prove the ſpecial place called for in an entry of two thouſand one hundred and fifty acres, made in the name of John Marſhall.

BARMEN, NEAR ELBERFELDT, June 20.

Extract from the official details ſent by the Count de Neſſelrode.

They fought for four ſucceſſive days on the Lahn. The courſe of that river is in ſome degree impeded by the quantity of dead bodies which have floated down the ſtream, and are collected in heaps. The Republicans were conſtantly repulſed, and at laſt compleatly beaten. Thoſe who were ſtationed in the vicinity of Ehrenbreitſtein have paſſed the Rhine at Nieuweid; Le Fevre's diviſion towards Bonn, & gen. Kleber's head-quarters were yeſterday at Mulheim, near Cologne. The arch-duke Charles appears firmly reſolved not to leave a Frenchman on this ſide of the Rhine. They write from Frankfort, that a reſolution to this effect has been formally announced.

ESSEN, June 21.

All the particulars which have been received of the retreat of the French are confirmed from various quarters, as you will ſee by the bulletin annexed. A general conſternation prevails at Duſſeldorff, and in all the neighboring places. Several perſons arrived here yeſterday, who had already eſcaped from thence, they all agree that the loſs of the French is incalculable. Sixty barges have been ſent down the Rhine to Cologne, full of wounded men. A number of cannon has been placed on the ramparts of Duſſeldorff.

The garden of the courts, and the houſe of the maſter of the hounds, which is next to it, with ſeveral other buildings, are already marked for demolition. It is pretended, that the head-quarters of the French will be eſtabliſhed there this day.

June 22, in the morning.

A letter from the Sieg, written the night before the laſt, at midnight, informs us, that the French are routed; that the Auſtrians have fought them every day ſince the 15th with great advantage; and that, from a heavy cannonade which had been heard, they are now in the environs of Siegbourg. The whole army of the arch duke, as well as the right wing of Wurmſur's, are on this ſide of the Rhine. The generals Lefevre and Lanpoul, have been wounded; the brother of the former is killed.

A letter from Frankfort, of the 19th informs us, that the Auſtrians took poſſeſſion of Nieuweid the evening before they had time to gain the enemy's bridges before Nieuweid; of courſe, the enemy muſt immediately direct their force to Duſſeldorff. Two hundred waggons belonging to the French have fallen into the hands of our brave troops. The retreat and rout are complete.

June 22, in the afternoon.

Yes ſir, the retreat is abſolute, and the rout complete; every thing confirms this. The accounts from Duiſburg, Duſſeldorff, Keczoig, Elberfeldt, &c. all agree on this point. The following is an extract from a letter to me, written at Duſſeldorff yeſterday evening:—So, my good friend, inſtead of repairing to Frankfort, our army is returning hither! The engineers are arrived to complete the fortified camp of Duſſeldorff, and to pull down, and level with the ground, every thing that ſtands in their way. General Kleber is bringing back his head-quarters to this place, and a reinforcement of two diviſions of the army of the North, has received orders to march hither with all poſſible expedition. The battle of Uckareth, which took place on Sunday, was moſt deſtructive; blood was made to flow in copious ſtreams. Two diviſions extremely reduced, are ſtill on this ſide of the Rhine; the reſt have paſſed that river, and haſtened to ſtrengthen the right wing.

COLOGNE, Jue 21,

The papers of to-day will give you a great deal of intelligence; but they will not tell you all, not even that of which we have occular demonſtration. All the French allowed that the battle of Uckareth was more deſtructive than that of Flurus. The retreat is complete. A great deal of baggage has paſſed through this town, and barges full of wounded men are conſtantly arriving. Gen. Collaud is dead as well as the brother of Gen. Lefevre: Kleber and Lefevre are ſlightly wounded. Our attention is at preſent fixed upon the Hundſtruck. The flying bridge has not been in motion ſince this morning. It is ſaid that the Auſtrians are on the oppoſite ſide of the river, and that they have even entered Mulheim.

LIMBOURG, June 20.

In the evening of the eighteenth, the Arch-Duke Charles left Hackenbourge. We believe that his head-quarters were yeſterday at Altenkirchen.

General Wartenſleben left Freylengen at twelve o'clock yeſterday.

We learn at this inſt. that a very ſerious action took place yeſterday between Weyerbuch and Uckareth; it terminated entirely in favor of the Auſtrians. The enemy made a moſt vigorous reſiſtance, but were at length obliged to yield to the bravery and effort of our troop. One of its columns having been turned and ſurrounded, a part was killed, and the reſt taken priſoners.

WESEL, June 22—(in the evening.)

The report of the retreat of the French is fully confirmed. The army of the Sambre and the Meuſe will have its head-quarters at Duſſeldorff. Jourdan's head-quarters are at Andernach. The firſt Auſtrian parfoles were ſeen at Deniz, Oppoſite Cologne, at break of day of the twelfth.

France.

PARIS June 20.

ARMY OF THE SAMBRE AND MEUSE.

Jourdan, commander in chief of the army of the Sambre and Meuſe, to the Executive directory.

"CITIZEN DIRECTORS,

"I have the honor to inform you, that, that part of the army which was to retreat to Nieuweid, paſſed the river the day before yeſterday in the greateſt order, and without loſing a ſingle man, though in the preſence of ſix regiments of the enemy's cavalry and of ſeveral battalions of infantry, ſupported by twelve pieces of cannon. The enemy endeavored to deſtroy the bridge by two rafts, which they launched againſt it; the firſt without breaking it entirely, ſo far deranged it, required ſeveral hours to re-eſtabliſh it; but this was ſoon done by the zeal, activity, and talents of Citizen Trilet, captain of artillery, who commanded the workmen on the bridge; the ſecond raft was ſtopped before it reached the bridge.

"While the bridge was repairing, the army took a poſition on the Suynbach; whence it reſumed its march in the greateſt order; the retreat was covered by the cavalry and two battalions of the thirtieth half-brigade, under the command of Brigadier Arnaud. —Theſe two battalions and the third regiment of light horſe, led by Colonel Grosjean, diſtinguiſhed themſelves by the coolneſs and preciſion which they diſplayed in their minœuvres, which were executed under the fire of the enemy', artillery. At length, at eleven at night, that part of the bridge of Nieuweid, which extends over the right branch of the Rhine, was reſtored without accident.

"General Kleber, who was retreating on the Sieg, was yeſterday attacked in the poſt of Ukeradt, at two in the morning. The enemy's attack was ſo ſudden, that he deemed it leſs dangerous, to riſk a battle, than to continue his retreat. He therefore made the neceſſary diſpoſitions, and marched againſt the aſſailants, he even beat back the heads of the enemy's firſt column, but perceiving a conſiderable force, particularly in cavalry, advancing on his two flanks, he returned to his firſt poſition, and there maintained himſelf.

"The action ceaſed at three in the afternoon. The general was to reſume his march in the night, to gain the lines of Duſſeldorff. During our retreat, ſeveral partial actions took place, the particulars of which I cannot ſend you, as I have not received them; but our troops invariably diſplayed both courage and ſkill, and not a ſingle poſt was forced, ſo that our retreat was conducted with the greateſt order.

"I cannot Citizen Directories, ſufficiently praiſe the courage, coolneſs and perſeverence of the troops, who fought for three days and purſued their march in the night; neither ſtragglers nor fugitives were to be ſeen never did the the ar ny appear to greater advantage than during the retreat; And this is the time to judge of the conduct both of officers and privates.

The general officers merits the higheſt commendations; by their talents their courage, and the preciſion with which they executed my orders; they confirmed the courage of the ſoldier, and inſpire him with that confidence which averts diſaſter.

"Health and reſpect,

"JOURDAN."

Army of the Rhine and Moſelle.

Hauſſman, Commiſſary of the government to the Executive Directory.

"Straſburg, June 23, 11 in the morning.

"Your orders are executed. The army paſſed the Rhine this morning at two o'clock. Kehl is our own, with all its formidable batteries. Generals Defaix, Beaupon, and Fernio are purſuing the enemy with vigor. The action ſtill continues. A great extent of territory, and a number of villages are already occupied by our troops. The enemy is quite ſtupified by an attack as warm as it was unexpected. From five to ſix hundred priſoners already taken, with ſeveral caiſſons and pieces of cannon.

"It is not poſſible to beſtow ſufficient commendation on the bravery of the army, on the preciſion and particularly on the diſcretion with which the buſineſs was conducted. Yeſterday morning thirty thouſand men were in the environs of Straſburg, and nobody knew their real deſtination. At Nieuſtadt, it was ſuppoſed, yeſterday morning the head quarters were going to Turkheim, when they were directing their march to Straſburg. From ſuch unanimity every thing is to be expected.

"I have juſt left the commander in chief, as he was paſſing the Rhine. He will ſend off an extraordinary courier to night with farther particulars of this glorious expedition.

"Health and greeting.

"W. HAUSSMAN."

We have at this time fifty-two thouſand men in Suabia: the army of Conde is expoſed to the greateſt danger and its retreat appears to be cut off.

We are aſſured, that at the inſtigation of the Chevalier Azzara, Envoy from the King of Spain, the Duke of Parma has been compriſed in the treaty of peace between Spain and France. Conſequently the French will reſtore the contributions which the Duke has paid, or at leaſt will not inſiſt on the payment of that part of them which remains unpaid.

It is believed that the Chevalier Azzara has already ſigned the preliminaries of peace in the Pope's name. One of the moſt curious clauſes in this treaty is that by which the Holy Father undertakes to put a ſtop to ſchiſm which exiſts between the churches of France and Rome. On the other hand the Ami des Loix affirms that our troops are marching to Rome.

The Obſerver of the South alſo announces, that General Ruſca, at the head of a French column, has marched to Leghorn, and muſt have reached that place before this; that Maſſena directs the ſiege of Mantua; and that Eſpinoi commands at Milan.

NEW-YORK, Auguſt 9.

TOUGH STORY

Yeſterday morning it was reported with confidence, and generally believed until noon, that the Republican frigate Concord had been taken by the Britiſh frigate Thetis, and a variety of particulars related to render it plauſible; but it has been diſcovered to have been the lye of the day, circulated by thoſe whoſe wiſhes correſpond with the lye—probably for the purpoſe of wounding the feelings of the friends of that gallant nation, the French Republic. Our laſt accounts from the Concord were, that ſhe was at a diſtance, and of the Thetis, that ſhe was cruiſing on the American coaſt in company with the Prevoyante and Huſſan, for the purpoſe of waylaying ſome unwary coaſters, or other property of the American citizens, agreeably to treaty, to be adjudicated at Halifax, Bermuda, New-Providence, or ſome other Britiſh receptacle of ſtolen goods.

Taken up by the ſubſcriber, living on the waters of Drakes camp creek near Ouſleys Mill one gray Mare four years old, with a round bell on, trots and paces, about fourteen hands high; appraiſed to 61.

ARCHIBALD CLINTON.

Lexington, October 1.

The Sun of the 6th of July, under the head of 'Private correspondence,' and under dates from Essen, Bonn, &c. of the nineteenth, twentieth, twenty-first and twenty-second, swells with many words and much rejoicing, the accounts of the actions that had taken place between Le Fevre and Kray, of which we have given an abstract from the English official account. The names of generals are kept out of view in this 'private correspondence' and some confusion is introduced in the dates, which might lead the reader on a superficial view to suppose they related to actions subsequent to the 19th. But the silence of the Sun in this respect of the 7th and 8th, and the 11th, prove that the French have retreated to Dusseldorf quietly enough.

By this retreat the Austrians are drawn considerably to the north; and we find, that Moreau is crossing the Rhine at Kiel, whither the Austrians must press forward (if they wish to prevent the French from penetrating into the heart of their dominions) leaving the northern parts of their territory exposed.

CASH FOR HIDES.

I WILL give Cash for Hides at my Tan-Yard, nearly opposite Col. Patterson's, on Water street in Lexington—where I will also take hides to tan on the shares.

NOTICE.

I DO hereby forewarn all persons from taking a conveyance of one thousand acres of land, lying in Shelby county, on the waters of Gilt's fork, a branch of Brathiers's creek, adjoining Dayerly's land, from Philip Buckner of Mason county; as I have the said Philip Buckner's obligation, dated the ninth day of December 1792, for the conveyance of the said one thousand acres of land; the patent for which is now lying in the hands of Mr. Benjamin Sebastian, under our a greement. JOHN GRIFFITH.

3w Sept. 9, '96.

NOTICE is hereby given to all persons not to trade for an assignment of two bonds for one Hundred pounds each executed by me to a certain John Doyle late of Washington county Virginia lately removed to the state of Kentucky or elsewhere as I am determined not to pay the same unless compelled by law as I have from under his hand not to call for payment until he makes me a right for a certain tract of land which right it is improbable he can make as it neither rests in him nor in the person he purchased of.

ELIZABETH RUSSEL.

Washington county, Virginia.
August 27 1796.

N. B. It will be considered an act of friendship to the public in general for all the printers in Kentucky to give this a place in their papers to prevent imposition.

WHEREAS on the 22d of August 1795, my son, Thomas Daly jun. gave a bond to Mr. John Handly, of Logan county, for the sum of 416 2-3 dollars, to be discharged in Whiskey at 40. per gallon, deliverad at the Falls of Ohio, for which said Handly was to make a good and sufficient right and title in fee simple for 500 acres of land, situate on the road leading from Vienna, on Green river, to the Yellow Banks on the Ohio, which said bond has been in the hands of various persons, and now in the possession of Mr. Barber, contrary to Mr. Handly's positive assertions to me, on September 13, 1796. I therefore forewarn all persons from taking an assignment on said bond, as the said Daly is now in the settlement, and nothing will be paid till Mr. Handly complies with the tenor of his contract—then, in behalf of said Daly, I am authorised to settle the same.

Subject to a diſcount of Fifteen per Centum.

AS every encouragement ought to be given to manufactories in this ſtate, this in particular claims the attention of the public. The many advantages which will ariſe from manufacturing Duck, muſt be ſo forcibly ſtriking to every man of reflection, that the managers think it unneceſſary to enlarge on the ſubject; and the liberal principle upon which the ſcheme is founded (not two blanks to a prize) will, excluſive of that encouragement, juſtify the ſpeculative adventurer upon principles of gain. The managers therefore flatter themſelves that they will meet with ſuch encouragement in the ſales of the tickets as will in a ſhort time juſtify their appointing and giving public notice when the drawing of the lottery will commence.

Tickets may be had by applying in Lexington to meſſ. John Bradford and Alexander M'Gregor, in Frankfort to mr. George Madiſon, in Verſailles to Doctor Preſton, or to

EPITAPH

On a HERMIT.

FOR years upon a mountain's brow,
A Hermit liv'd the Lord knows how;
A robe and sackcloth did he wear,
And get his food, the Lord knows where;
Hardships and patience were his lot,
He often pray'd, the Lord knows what;
At length this holy man did die,
And left the world, the Lord knows why;
He's bury'd in this gloomy den,
And will arise the Lord knows when.

ANECDOTE.

A gentleman being on horseback, his servant who was on foot, in stroking the horse's buttocks, received a kick: he then aimed a stone at the horse, and hit his master on the back, which made him turn about and ask his man what was the matter? "Your horse, sir," says he, holding one of his legs, "has lamed me." "Aye," says his master, "he is very unruly, for he has kicked me on the back, and 'tis well he missed my head."

THE SUBSCRIBER

HAS opened in the stone house adjoining Mr. H. Marshalls Tavern, lately occupied by mr. William Shreshley & formerly by Mr. Benjamin Stout, a neat and well chosen assortment of

MERCHANDIZE,

Which he will dispose of on very moderate terms for cash or country produce.

WILLIAM WEST.

TO BE SOLD,

A VALUABLE plantation, containing near 300 acres, lying on Shelby's branch of Hickman, within half a mile of the Tate's creek road, Fayette county. About one half is walnut land, and the other excellent oak; about thirty acres cleared; it is well calculated for two plantations; there is three never failing springs; there is also a hemp mill which is very profitable in this country. For terms apply to the subscriber living on the premises.

SEPT. 13. 3aw SAMUEL SMITH.

I HAVE FOR SALE, ABOUT

330 Acres of LAND,

LYING on Shannon's run, near Parker's mill, in the county of Fayette, being part of Angus M'Donald's military survey—this tract is as well watered as any in the state, and abounds in a number of excellent and never failing springs; between 50 and 60 acres cleared, about 8 acres whereof is beautiful meadow—title indisputable. Maj. Shreshly, who lives near this tract, will shew the premises. A general warranty will be made to the purchaser, who may know the terms on application to Peyton Short, of Woodford, who is authorized to dispose of the same, or the subscriber.

tf THOMAS GARNETT.

FOR SALE

ONE thousand acres of the late General Stephen's military survey of LANDS on Hickman, about ten miles from Lexington, and adjoining that part on which General Lawson now lives. For terms apply to Thomas Hart and Cornelius Beatty of said town who are empowered to dispose of the same.

WASHING

To be had at the subscriber's—and a few GENTEEL BOARDERS will be taken, next door to Mr. Huston the saddler, on Main street, Lexington.

JOSIAS BULLOCK.

GEORGE ADAMS,

RESPECTFULLY informs his friends and the public in general, that he has opened Tavern, in that commodious house on Main street the third door below Cross street; where those who please to favor him with their custom, shall meet with every possible attention.

TROTTER & SCOTT,

HAVING sold off their Store, earnestly request all those indebted to them, by bond, note or open account, to come forward & make immediate payment to themselves or Mr. WILLIAM SCOTT, who is authorized to receive, and give discharges.—Those who neglect this notice, cannot expect any longer indulgence. They will attend for the above purpose at the house they lately occupied on Main street.

Twenty Dollars reward.

RUN away from the subscriber's plantation in Bush's settlement, in March last, a Negro Boy, about seventeen or eighteen years old, of a slender make, but remarkable large feet, on one of his hands is a scar caused by a burn, he is of a yellow complexion, his name Britain, but originally called Ned, his dress I have reason to believe is changed. The said boy was some weeks past taken up by a gentleman on the north side of the Ohio river, and made his escape within five miles of my house. Any person who will deliver said negro to me, shall receive the above reward, or have him apprehended so that I get him again, shall receive ten dollars, and all reasonable charges.
